DETAILED ITINERARY

1 Marrakech- Télouat - Ait Ben Haddou - Ouarzazate

Early in the morning, departure from Marrakech by 4x4. After a short drive, beautiful landscapes and small terraced villages appear along a winding road leading up to the spectacular Tizi n'Tichka Pass, located at 2,260 meters above sea level. Just after the pass, we take a road of about 20 kilometers through desert hills before arriving at the village of Telouet. This hidden gem is known for the ruins of its magnificent Kasbah, once the main residence of the "Lord of the Atlas," Pasha El Glaoui. The kasbah included his court, stables, a mosque, and numerous servants during the time he ruled a vast territory stretching from Marrakech to Agadir and even toward the Sahara Desert. After visiting the Kasbah of Telouet, the journey continues off-road through the Assif Ounila Valley and its Berber villages, leading to Ait Ben Haddou. Here, we explore the famous ksar and kasbah, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. We walk through this remarkable architectural ensemble built into the mountainside, with its earth-toned walls, fortified towers, and traditional stepped housing. This extraordinary site has been used as a filming location for many Hollywood productions, including The Mummy, Gladiator, Babel, Alexander, and others. Upon arrival in Ouarzazate, a visit to the impressive Atlas Film Studios can be arranged. We then continue to the Kasbah

2 Ouarzazate - Gorges De Dadès - Gorges Todra - Erfoud- Merzouga

We continue towards the beautiful oasis of Skoura, located 42 km from Ouarzazate, where we stop to visit the magnificent Kasbah Amridil. The journey then follows the famous Valley of Roses through El Kelaa M'Gouna, known as the Citadel of the Mgouna Tribe, where thousands of roses are cultivated to produce rose essential oil and rose water. This region is highly appreciated for its Berber heritage and traditions. We continue to the ksour of Aït Youl for a short visit to this charming village nestled among rocky slopes. The route then climbs toward Aït Arbi, where unusual rock formations resemble human footprints. Crossing a narrow canyon and a series of winding roads, we reach Taghia n'Dadès and the mountain village of Msemrir at an altitude of 1,700 meters. Lunch will be served in the heart of the spectacular Todra Gorge, surrounded by dramatic landscapes inhabited by Berber communities and nomadic goat herders. Enjoy a walk through the narrow canyon carved between the High Atlas Mountains and Jebel Saghro. After lunch, we continue towards the impressive dunes of Merzouga and Erg Chebbi. Heading east through the Tinejdad Valley, once home to the southern Aït Atta Berber warriors, we pass fertile palm groves, arid hills, and desert roads alternately covered with sand and wind-swept dunes. Upon arrival in
